Everything you require for staging realistic scenarios

Realism and experience

With its creative and enthusiastic team, FireWare develops and supplies training and instruction solutions for the emergency services. Our theatrical background ensures that our solutions raise the bar when it comes to realism and experience!

FireWare brings together creativity and proven technology, resulting in innovative solutions that really make the difference in training experience. We can proudly say that we serve as a source of inspiration for our customers, suppliers and our industry as a whole. Over the last 19 years we have been privileged to create a large number of products that help the emergency services become skilled and maintain those skill levels!

We aim to create long-term relationships with our customers and suppliers by focussing on excellence in our products, processes and services and, of course, by always being authentic and honest.

Hands-on

The staging equipment created by FireWare is not designed from behind a desk – we adopt a hands-on approach and use the equipment ourselves. FireWare has the largest rental fleet of specialised training equipment in Europe, and that collection has taught us a great deal, which we in turn use for the benefit of our products. Our equipment is designed to be as robust as possible, or 'vandal-proof', as firefighters like to say – it can even survive being rented out as well as being used by a fire brigade!

The show must go on!

Just like any tool, training equipment is used intensively and thus requires maintenance. Unfortunately, anything can break down on occasion, including training equipment. Therefore our service does not stop after delivery, we always ensure that a training course can carry on by making rapid repairs, sending spare parts or providing replacement equipment – because the show must go on! We, like no other, understand how important it is that a course takes place when scheduled time enabling the emergency services improve their skills!

A website packed with inspiration and information

FireWare offers an extraordinary range of scenario-staging equipment. All our products can be easily found on our website at www.FireWare.nl. Together with prices, photos, descriptions and videos!

The website also contains much information on you can use these products to your own create realistic training environments. You will find many sources of simulation inspiration from home and abroad.

Packaging and storage

FireWare doesn't just supply training equipment, we also consider the best possible packaging, storage and transportation solutions for our products. Training equipment is frequently moved around, which is why we opted to package many of our products in sturdy plastic cases that help to extend product lifespans.

All our plastic cases are easy to stack. The dimensions are based on a Euro pallet making it easy to store and transport them. This creates a smaller environmental footprint. Empty stackable plastic cases can also be ordered separately – giving you the perfect storage solution for all your training equipment!

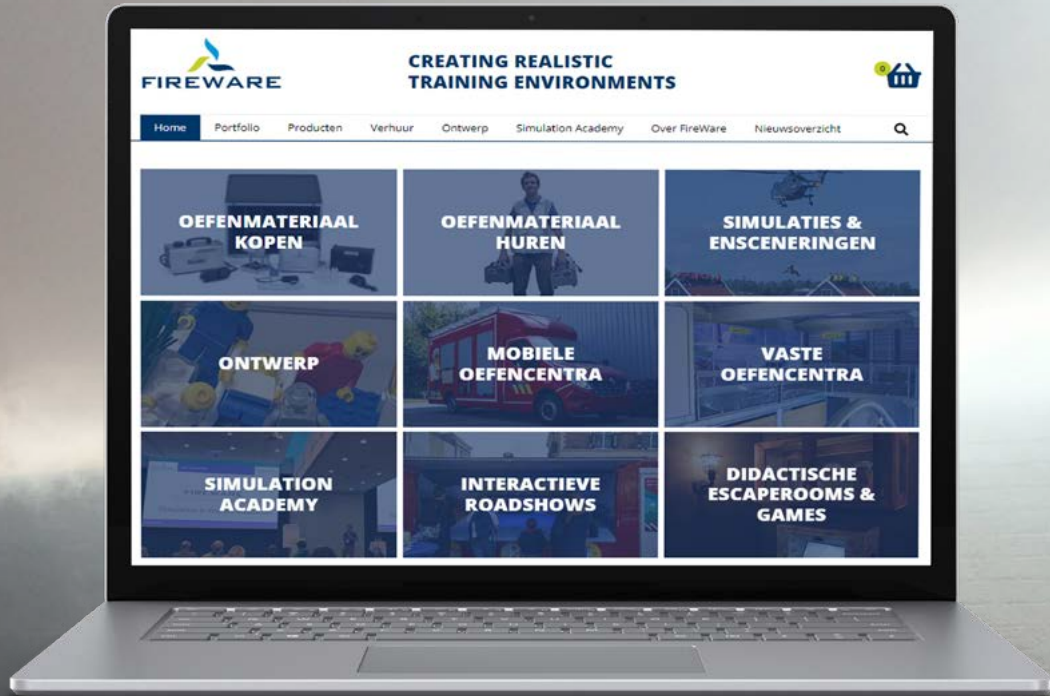

An onsite demo or pay a visit to our test centre

Sometimes you want to hold a machine in your own hands and try it. We know the feeling! We can show you most of our products in action at our extensive test centre in Wieringerwerf. You are always welcome to pay a visit. If you let us know in advance, we will ensure an expert is available to give you a guided tour. If you prefer an onsite demonstration at your premises, we will be happy to oblige.
